| Career History | A Chartered Engineer with over forty years practical experience in civil engineering and building construction - thirty eight with the SIAC Group. Retired in March 2009 as Managing Director of SIAC Construction Ltd. Successfully directed the SIAC Group's civil engineering business since 1979, serving as a Director for 23 years during which time SIAC grew into one of Ireland's largest, most diverse and successful construction groups. Responsible for SIAC's civil engineering and building business in the UK from 1987 to 2004. Responsible for the successful operation and strategic development of the SIAC Group's commercial development interests from 1994 to 2009 and for the purchase from receivership of Butlers Steel in 1996 and its subsequent re-branding and development as SIAC Butlers Steel Ltd. |
| Positions held | 1999 - Present Member of Dispute Resolution Board of Engineers Ireland. 1995 - Present Actively involved in the Construction Industry Federation. Served as President of the Civil Engineering Contractors Association and Chairman of the Contracts Committee which consulted with the Department of Finance on the introduction of the new GCCC forms of contract. Subsequently served as President of the CIF during 2007 and 2008. Member of the Audit & Organisation Committee and Executive Committee. 2009 - Present Member of the Accreditation Board of Engineers Ireland. |
| Dispute resolution experience | Represented SIAC at several conciliations in Ireland from 1994 - 2009 on motorway, sewage treatment plant and other construction projects in disputes ranging in value from €500k to €20m, all of which were settled by agreement. Involved in 1 complex UK conciliation on an airport runway project and 1 UK arbitration. Represented SIAC in 2 arbitrations in Ireland, one of which settled prior to hearing. From June 2009 to January 2011, I was involved as a consultant and witness on two inter related arbitrations on a complex motorway project dispute which was finally resolved at mediation in early 2011. Since 2011, I have acted as a conciliator on a number of civil engineering construction projects all of which were resolved during the conciliation process. |
| Specific areas of expertise | Extensive civil engineering construction experience, in particular on the design and construction of major motorway projects. Wide experience in conciliation and arbitration of civil engineering construction disputes. Specific expertise in relation to IEI, FIDIC, NEC and GCCC forms of contract, on which, since 2004 I have been a part time lecturer in Trinity College, Dublin, on the Post Graduate Diploma Course "Construction Law & Contract Administration". |
